Western Slope Camp Meeting Harkens Back to the Old Days »

Giving life to the impression of an old-time camp meeting with presentations on the unique message of the Seventh-day Adventist Church, Mike Ryan was the featured speaker for the Western Slope camp meeting held August 1-4. He traced major historical figures in the church, asserting that it's our turn now, our time to stand for our faith and take the gospel to the world. Ryan was a former general VP for the General Conference, and is currently assistant to the president in charge of strategic planning.

Held in the foothills 15 miles outside Montrose, this was the third camp meeting on the Western Slope following a ten-year hiatus. More than 200 people, up from 182 last year, erected tents or stayed in cabins or motorhomes. Some drove in from nearby towns. Attendance has grown each year following its resurrection.

"Montrose pastor, Fritz Krieger "has done a marvelous job of getting these camp meetings started again on the Western Slope," explained Ron Johnson, Grand Junction Church member.

Seminars presented by pastors Nate Skaif, Eliezer Roque, Ron Price, and Carol Sikora focused on healthful living, digging deep into the Bible, healthy relationships, and witnessing.

Jim Burr, recognized throughout the world for his achievements in telescope design and manufacturing, was on hand to share his perspective on astronomy and the Bible with affirming evidence of creation. Using two of his telescopes, he gave attendees the opportunity to view Jupiter, along with two of its moons.

Events for the youth were led by Wildfire, a group from Campion.

"The presence of the Spirit was evident," said Johnson. "The inspiring meetings and seminars, catching up with friends, getting better acquainted with the speakers and making new friends in a scenic location made for a spiritually, emotionally, intellectually, and physically refreshing retreat." Ron and wife Linda took advantage of the scenic location, hiking the Simms Mesa Trail before dawn one morning, watching the sun rise in the smoky eastern sky over the Elk Mountains and picking blueberries along the valley trail.

"Meals provided a time for good fellowship," said Eric Nelson, VP for RMC administration. "Huddles of people enjoyed conversing and I frequently heard exclamations like, 'It's so good to see you' followed by hugs and more visiting."

new friends. It wasn't needed, though, as friendships were forged automatically, some perhaps for life.

Greeley Frontiersmen Hasina and Casper Mountaineer Sydney both worked on airplane modeling and duct tape honors, fashioning wallets out of duct tape. Hasina also created a purple, blue and black bow tie out of the sticky stuff.

Although winds and rain threatened activities like the scavenger hunt held outdoors on Sabbath afternoon, it only added to the high spirits of the Pathfinders.

"This was the best camporee we've ever had," said RMC Pathfinder Director Chris Hill who, along with husband Don, also a Director, coordinated the event, citing "tons of compliments" from leaders on the speaker, record attendance filling the church bowl all the way up to the trees, and the 'I AM' theme with Pathfinders writing what it meant to them on stage blackboards.

The 2018 Camporee brought 350 members from 25 diverse clubs throughout the Rocky Mountain Conference, including an Indonesian club that attended for the first time, Hispanic clubs, and a club from Central States Conference "that we've adopted," commented Chris Hill.

Story Guidelines: We want to share your news! » News Nuggets is your publication. We strive to provide news and information expressing our church life. Every church, every family, every individual has a story to tell. We are inviting pastors and secretaries of churches and institutions within the Rocky Mountain Conference to share with us relevant information -- about developments, issues, notable events, as well as experiences of church members.

Please email your story to nuggets@rmcsda.org so we can share how God is working through His people in your territory. When submitting your story, please include the following: the Ws (who, what, where, when, why...also how), a organization can struggle. RMC youth leaders are constantly evaluating and integrating new ideas. One leader suggested a less-formal organization that provides activities for its members, integrating the honors with the activity. A camping weekend could provide an opportunity for Pathfinders to earn honors in Camp Craft, Camp Safety, Camping Skills, Dutch Oven Cooking, Edible Wild Plants, Fire Building & Camp Cookery, and Cold Weather Survival. Or Pathfinders wanting to learn about farming could create a garden at their church and/or volunteer on a farm and earn honors in Gardening, Fruit Growing, Goat Husbandry, Herbs, Horse Husbandry, Horsemanship, Livestock, Poultry, Seeds, and Sheep Husbandry. There are any number of interests that could be pursued through activities.

As leaders sort out ways to reach Rocky Mountain Conference youth, those who attended last weekend's camporee enthused about "going on a Jeep trip" between camporee activities with Steve Hamilton and singing with the praise team. "I got to be with some of my best friends and I love singing," said Hasina.

Young People Comment About Pueblo Wildfire

Experience » Last week, NewsNuggets published the article, "Wildfire Team Outreach Impacts Pueblo." We'd like to share quotes from participants involved.

Nolan Eickmann reflected, "It's been awesome to grow in my relationship with God and to help others grow in their relationship with God."

Ashley Halvorson said, "Wildfire made me realize that people might have something going on inside that you don't see, so you should always be kind to them and be praying for them."

Esequias Perea, associate pastor at Champion Academy, commented, "Next summer we are hoping to have two to three Wildfire teams. The more kids that are involved, the more churches we can reach." With God's help Wildfire will continue to grow and bless others.

Nestor Soriano, chaplain at Champion started Wildfire in 2015 out of a desire to help youth preach the word of God. The name Wildfire comes from Acts 2 when the Holy Spirit came upon the believers and tongues of fire appeared above their heads. Wildfire has since grown to include a week of prayer during the school year for Champion Academy and a summer job program from the beginning of June to August.

FROM THE EDITOR

We want to share your news -- Change is a part of the communication age. With online media experiencing constant evolution, the NewsNuggets is also experiencing an increased access from our readers and contributors. We will continue to encourage news sharing from our churches, institutions, and individual church members.

In order to make our eNewsletter accommodate an increased volume of announcements, our editorial work proposes to present information in a more efficient approach, ensuring that all timely promotions and announcements be included in a weekly, Friday release of NewsNuggets. Submission deadline for stories, news, and announcements is at noon on every Wednesday.

Please send all your submissions to nuggets@rmcsda.org.

Thank you for your contribution, but also comments, as NewsNuggets continues to serve the church in an efficient and effective way.

NOTE: Questions are being raised regarding guidelines for the Announcement section of the RMC NewsNuggets newsletter. After a review of the guidelines, the following few points should be considered when sending announcements or promotional materials:

- The newsletter has been established primarily for news sharing within the conference, though selected general church news stories are also considered for publication.
- The primary readership of the newsletter are church members within the Rocky Mountain Conference.

- When submitting an announcement, consider that local Sabbath events may be drawing members from other local churches.

- Promoting evangelistic meetings in NewsNuggets is not attracting potential attendees for whom the meetings are primarily advertised.

- Due to space constraints, NewsNuggets will not publish posters and other large photos or images. However, information from the text will be used.

- Announcements will not be repeated more than twice, and they should be concise. Web page links or phone numbers should be provided for additional information.

We are inviting all correspondents and contributors to follow a general Adventist News Network Style Guide, including glossary. For guidelines,
