The Final Week of Christ Considered at the One Project Gathering in Seattle » Unless one attends one of the One project gatherings, simply hearing about it or watching online video gives you only a glimpse, at best. A One project gathering is an experience, and a powerful one at that. For some participants, it offers a mirror to reflect our spiritual image or a thermometer to measure how deeply our faith in Jesus has influenced the words and deeds of our Christian lives.

The Seattle, Washington gathering, February 14-16, was the largest so far, displaying an ever-growing momentum. In comments at so-called "Recalibrate" table discussions after each presentation, and in corridor break-conversations, there was an affirmation of a need to recognize Christ and His sacrifice as "this one thing" to experience as Seventh-day Adventists.

Writing on his Facebook page, the gathering's host, Paddy McCoy, chaplain at Walla Walla University said, "Great music, powerful and inspiring messages, Jesus lifted on high! My body may be utterly and completely exhausted, but my heart is full." Across the Seattle Westin Hotel Grand Ballroom, the open Bibles bore testimony that the written Word is the blueprint to be discovered or rediscovered again and again.

Since its first event in Atlanta, Georgia, in 2011, when some 172 attendees began what today is referred to as "conversations in the community," the One project is continuing to attract scores of new participants yearning to enrich their experience in Jesus within the Seventh-day Adventist community of believers. The Seattle gathering, which was the project's twenty-third worldwide, centered on exploring the meaning of Christ's Final Week -- his trial, crucifixion, and resurrection as recorded in the Gospels.

Among the sixteen presenters, William G. Johnsson, a known theologian and author, who served as editor of the Adventist Review and Adventist World, preached on "The Meaning of the Death of Christ." Johnsson's presentation provided a crescendo for the gathering. "The main thing for all of us is that Christ died for our sins," Johnsson stated with conviction. There was no other exclamation mark that was needed, it appeared. It was evidenced in the tears of the participants: they got it!

Several pastors from Colorado churches joined nearly sixty church members from the Boulder church, including its worship team. Elia King, associate pastor for worship and the arts in Boulder, wrote a new song, "Hosanna (Kingdom Come)." It added to the event's theme, and to the worship atmosphere of the gathering. The music sheet of Elia's song is available at https://s3.amazonaws.com/the1proj-main/documents/Hosanna\(KingdomCome\).pdf.pdf)

Commenting on the Seattle gatherings, Japhet De Oliveira, senior pastor of the Boulder Church and co-char of the One project said that "spending two days remembering the final week of Jesus simply warms my heart with more love for God. His grace is sufficient."

This year, the One project gathering in Seattle added two additional events, The Advance Conference and The Create Conference. Across these three gatherings, some 1,323 participants joined the One project in Seattle, according to the organizers.

The Advance Conference brought healthcare professionals and pastors together for a conversation aimed at blending ministry and healthcare in order to make both professions stronger and better able to utilize healthcare as an evangelistic tool. Similarly, The Create Conference provided an opportunity to look at the future of Adventism, and the role of a local church in creatively responding t a challenge to find ways to meet real needs of the community and introducing people to Jesus.

As with each gathering, there are questions to consider again and again. There are challenges to take on wherever we live. These have become a diet that cannot satisfy with only one meal. It is in following Jesus, our Savior, that we take steps closer to each other and to our larger communities

An Invitation to 2016 RMC Town Hall Meetings »

It's that time of year when you are invited to meet with the officers of the Rocky Mountain Conference who travel to all parts of this far-flung mountainous, wind-swept, flat and otherwise varied region to visit, talk and share up-to-date information about your conference.

These annual town hall meetings were designed to give our constituency the opportunity to dialogue with the officers, ask questions, exchange information and share reports.

"We always count it a privilege to go out and visit with our members in the various regions of the conference," states Eric Nelson, VP for administration. He, along with President Ed Barnett, and VP for finance George Crumley, will be traveling to meet with you over an 11-day period beginning March 29 and continuing through April 9.

Listed below are the dates, times and places of the town hall meetings in the various regions. Attend the town hall meeting held in your area. Ask questions, present ideas, and voice your opinions. Should you wish to suggest a topic to be addressed at a town hall meeting, please communicate this to Eric Nelson at erickn@rmcsda.org

Christian Record Services For the Blind Reduces Staff, Preserves Mission »

The Christian Record Services for the Blind (CRSB) Board of Directors voted to that expresses our church life. Every church, every family, every individual has a story to tell. We are inviting pastors and secretaries of churches and institutions within the Rocky Mountain Conference to share with us relevant information – about developments, issues, notable events, as well as experiences of church members.

Please email your story to nuggets@rmcsda.org so we can share how God is working through His people in your territory. When submitting your story, please include the following: the Ws (who, what, where, when, why..also how), a personal quote, a photo and the name of the photographer. Please consider time constraints and always send in fresh new stories instead of outdated ones. Submission deadlines are Wednesdays by noon.

implement a reduction in force on Thursday, February 11, following a two-day strategic planning meeting in Lincoln, Nebraska, in January. The Board engaged in an extensive, in-depth analysis of Christian Record's operations and financial resources, which included, among other things, input from CRSB staff, field representatives, consulting professionals, and Christian Record clients.

CRSB employees were informed of the reduction by Daniel R. Jackson, Board chair (also president of the North American Division); Diane Thurber, CRSB president; and Shelly Kittleson, vice president for finance, in Lincoln.

"We deeply regret having to take these measures because of the pain that has been created," said Jackson. "Dedicated individuals have given many years to the ministry. But we had no other option if we were going to preserve a compassionate ministry for the blind."

The Board determined to restructure the organization by eliminating certain positions at Christian Record headquarters, ceasing print production -- except braille materials which will continue -- and ceasing current field operations.

"I am so grateful for the opportunity I have had to work alongside these faithful Christian Record employees who have become friends, and I am very saddened to say 'farewell' to some of the most committed, talented workers I've witnessed anywhere in my ministry journey with the Adventist Church," stated Thurber. "These individuals and those who labored before them have laid the foundation on which this ministry can continue to serve the blind until Jesus comes and restores sight to people who are blind."

"It is Christian Record's desire to expand its reach in the U.S. and abroad, and we recognize this will not be possible without the Lord's guidance and blessings," said Thurber. "We solicit the prayers of all Christian Record supporters and volunteers, and invite renewed support for this ministry so it can continue to help the blind 'see' Jesus. It is Christian Record's desire to extend this challenge of engagement and inclusion to the local church, so all members can benefit from the joy of service, friendship, and fellowship with the blind."

"Christian Record Services for the Blind has been and will continue to provide valuable spiritual materials and services for the visually impaired, by God's grace," said Ted N. C. Wilson, president of the General Conference of Seventh-day Adventists. "We pray that new and efficient methods of outreach will increase the special ministries for the sight-impaired as we approach Christ's soon coming when we will all see Jesus!"

The Board also voted to sell Christian Record's current facility and surrounding property and hopes to relocate the ministry to an appropriately-sized facility by early summer. Christian Record will continue to be headquartered Winterfest New and Different » For more than 25 years, Winterfest has been blessing teens, youth, college students and young adults with great mountain-top experiences centered around skiing and spring break. Evolving over the years, it has become more family-oriented and has attracted more people from the Front Range rather than from the college scene.

To accommodate our local Coloradans, Winterfest will be held at the beautiful Silverthorne Pavillion on Sabbath, February 27, with an 11 a.m. church service followed by lunch. The afternoon will be open for families to spend in the beautiful mountains.

Join us for an inspiring message, amazing music, great food and warm fellowship on February 27.

Silverthorne Pavillion is located at 400 Blue River Parkway, Silverthorne, CO 80498. For more information, go to RMCyouth.org/winterfest.

Associate Producer -- Media, Production & Programming: The Voice of Prophecy is looking for a passionate person who loves using media and technology to share the Good News. The ideal candidate should be proficient with audio, video and digital media production. This person should also be a strong manager who can design engaging radio shows, produce compelling TV, manage teams, run multiple large projects, and think about the future of media technology.

Associate Director -- VOP Creative Department: Do you think and dream in the visually creative space? The Voice of Prophecy is seeking a creative professional who desires to use their talents for soul-winning and evangelism. Prospective candidates should be proficient and experienced in many creative areas such as: print design, brand creation, web design, UX design, motion graphics, 3D graphics and presentation graphics. Proficiency in the areas of video production and photography a plus.

Assistant Supervisor -- Mailroom: Are you someone who loves logistics and has an eye for detail and a knack for supervision? If so, you might be the perfect candidate for the Voice of Prophecy's Mailroom Assistant Supervisor position! In this position, you would assist with the development, implementation, coordination and monitoring of all phases of mailing services in addition to supervision of mailroom staff. As a direct result of your work, people worldwide would receive resources like Bible lessons and make decisions for Christ thanks, in part, to your efforts in getting resources to them in a timely manner.
