2015 Town Halls: Less About Programs, More About People »

Since arriving at the Rocky Mountain Conference office in March, my learning curve was accelerated in the first few days of May. As I am writing this on May 5, I am richer for the experience of attending a series of Town Hall meetings -- in Grand Junction, Durango, and at Denver's LifeSource Adventist Fellowship. Not only it was an opportunity to travel together with several members of the leadership team, meeting new church members and pastors, but also to see also to see the amazing beauty of Colorado.*

Reflecting on what one experienced meeting at those three Town Hall meeting, one had a feeling that RMC is less about programs, and more about people and their engagement with the church's mission. For me, the following memorable details stand out:

*Accountability is high on the agenda in our conference. This can be seen in the approach to who and what we, as a church, are about. Ed Barnett, the RMC president, shared our Mission Statement – “Knowing Christ and Making Him Fully Known” – which is the call to be focused and intentional in our vision and mission.

out of this disaster.

CEO Dr Dale Mole writes, "We had a 9 year old girl come into the hospital after spending days buried in the rubble.

The house collapsed and her relatives just assumed she was dead. She happened to hear the voice of her uncle and started calling "uncle, uncle". Her relatives started shouting and calling her name...to which she responded, "Quit calling my name, just pull me out of here." She has a crushed pelvis and just underwent her 2nd of 3 surgeries."

Relief efforts in the remote villages of the surrounding area are being coordinated with Scheer Memorial Hospital and teams from Loma Linda University, ADRA, World Vision, and the Harvard Disaster Medicine Program. Centura Health has been actively seeking donations to provide medical care to those injured in the earthquake. The hospital structure was left largely undamaged, however several staff members have lost their homes. Donations to relief efforts can be made at:

Saving Lives in the Peruvian Farmland »

Erick Mori » Saboya is a 35 year-old farmer and father of three who started experiencing abdominal pains during the night. After one difficult night, he got out of bed and went to his fields where he cultivates a potato-like root crop called yucca. The sharp pains came again, so Erick decided he should go back to the health post. He had heard that a group of foreigners were coming to his village of Yana Yacu Bonbonage to conduct a medical campaign.

Yana Yacu is located on a tributary to the Amazon River. During high water, the village can be reached in one hour by a fast boat from Iquitos, the capital of the Amazon basin in Peru. When the river goes down, another route must be followed which takes two hours. And during the dry season, the rivers become so small that it is impossible to travel by boat. Village residents have to walk several hours to reach the Amazon River where they can flag down a passing boat. [\[more\]](#) Jumpstart to Fitness » In spite of all night rain, morning drizzle and foggy circumstances, ten of the nineteen participants' spirits weren't dampened and arrived at 5:30 a.m. Sunday, April 26, for the 5K run-walk. Another five had arrived the night before and stayed in the Eden Valley Village. The last four participants came in time for worship and breakfast.

All participants were a chipper and enthusiastic bunch throughout the whole misty day.

The program was well organized and presented by Joseph Hollifield, Eden Valley Lifestyle's Fitness Trainer, with assistance from John Roeske, Eden Valley's resident marathon runner and trail guide, and Michael Charles, former NFL player and director of

On the Road Again » The Seventh-day Adventist Riders

Club is on the road again! This motorcycle club emerged out of the Fort Collins church in 2007 when a group of riders donned black T-shirts heralding, "I am the Way, Yo Soy El Camino, John 14:6" and took a weekend cycle trip to the Salida church to share their testimonies.

Over the years, several riders from the Front Range joined the group with trips to Craig, Spearfish, Leadville, Gunnison and Worland. "We basked in the joy of the ride and the worship that melded the group into a lifelong bond that sharing one's faith brings," says Lynne Eagan.

The Riders Club plans another July 17-19, leaving Friday morning for the scenic route through the famous Colorado scenery and up to Rawlins to conduct the Sabbath services there. On Sunday, the Riders will play in the hot springs in Saratoga, according to Lynne. Photo from the Leadville trip with Enderson and Iwsabel Cruz from the Fort Collins church in the lead. Dick Stenbakken to Speak at Littleton Church »

Dick Stenbakken, director and presenter of Bible Faces, first-person narrative biblical presentations, will speak at the Littleton church at 7 p.m. Friday, May 8 and 11 a.m. Sabbath, May 9. With more than 60 carefully researched biblical characters, Stenbakken has presented their moving messages to a host of churches, on international TV, at many prayer breakfasts at the Pentagon and at the US Senate/Staff Bible study luncheons.

The Littleton church is at 7400 S. Windermere Street, Littleton, CO 80120. For more information, call 303-798-5648.
